Day 4: Practice Tasks for Your Project

Task 1. Growth Channel Selection and Commitment

Pick three potential channels and complete the following table to choose the primary one. Answer from 1 to 5 for each question:

Channel	Does it fit your product?	Are your users already there?	Can you keep doing it every week for one month?	How fast will you get feedback?	Total Score
Product-led growth	4	4	3	2	13
Social Media	5	4	5	5	19
Partnership & Bundling	4	4	1	2	11
PR and Influencers	5	4	2	3	14

Commit to the selected main channel:

1. Write down the primary channel you are choosing:

Social Media.

2. I*n three sentences, explain why this channel makes sense. Think about how this channel matches with your product and your customer. Can you create content or run campaigns in this channel every week? Does it make financial sense? In other words, will the customers you get there pay back quickly?*

> There are plenty of communities on Reddit, TikTok or Discord focused on studying, where people are actively searching for focus tools. I can create posts in these channels, share demo videos of the product and interact with user.
> Financially, this is option is very inexpensive, and it will be quick feedback from potential clients users.

3. Write one clear sentence that defines success. What is the one metric that will show you if this channel works?

> People show interest in the product by commenting about the product by signing up to a waiting list, sharing the product and giving likes.

Task 2. Marketing Campaign Plan

1. Choose a clear target group

Who are you talking to? What is the problem they are struggling with?

> I am talking to students who find it hard to stay focused.

2. Choose ONE clear offer and call to action

For example: join a waitlist, book a demo, apply for a pilot, try the tool, download a template, get a free audit or report, …

Join the waitlist. As soon as we launch the product, will invite you to use it for free in the beta testing stage.

3. Define your message in one sentence

Keep it focused. One problem, one benefit, one clear next step.

If you're having problems staying focused on your work or studies, we've built a browser specially designed to help you maintain focus. Join the waiting list, and you'll be the noticed as soon as we're ready to launch the first beta testing round.

4. Prepare campaign assets
List the minimum things you need to launch this campaign (e.g., landing page, post with a link, short demo, …)

I can start immediately, by getting to know the specific Social Media channel: posting questions in the community, interacting with other users etc.

The next step would be to create a landing page, with a waitlist signup. So that I can make a post with a link to the landing page.

The following step is to record a demo of the application, to get more users interested and build understanding for what I offer.

5. Choose a metric to track and set a timeframe

Now pick one number that shows if your campaign is working.

My posts linking to the landing page get response. There's an increase of people in the waiting list. A good number to reach is 100+ users within the first two weeks - to see that it is working.
